

*Diabetes
does not discriminate.
It strikes
children as young as two months old...*

Results of the AusDiab Study, April 2001, show that over one million Australians have diabetes. Half of them don't know it - yet. Left undiagnosed and untreated, complications such as blindness, kidney failure, stroke, heart disease, amputation and impotence are often a consequence. With early diagnosis and appropriate care, diabetes can be well managed and the risk of complications reduced. Diabetes Australia-NSW cares for all people with diabetes and your bequest will assist our awareness, research and education programs.
